Hey boss.

Is there anything, that I, Senator, I flew in to LA yesterday got there about one o'clock, is there any way that we say that you were up there visiting me and her?

Will that fly?

Yeah, I I I flew . . . I, I left L.A., I left RDU at 7 o'clock in the morning, seven-thirty, and I got to LAX at about, about quarter til 12, 12 o'clock.

Alright, what they, what they, they told, they called my attorney, the woman who represented me way back when, and they told her, told her that they had videotape of you.

Did you see any video cameras?

OK

Well they say in the article that y'all went out walking.

OK

(Background noise)

well, I mean . . .

Senator I hate to say this, but . . .

But Senator, the quote from this inside source, it sounds exactly like one of her friends. It's a word that she used to always say. I . . . she's tired of running and tired of living a lie. This is coming from one of her friends.

That's the, there is a quote in the story. Rielle may get her wish all she wants is for John to marry her, marry her and for them to live happily ever after with their baby. "She is tired of running and living a lie." That is verbatim what she used to say.

But what they said is that they knew you that, that that you were coming there, and they staked it out.

I don't know.

Alright, sir.
